Pharmacy Overview

At Maharana Pratap College of Pharmacy, learning goes beyond books and becomes a journey. The department is known for creating an environment where students study pharmacy, and they understand how it works in practice.

Each concept is connected with an application, helping students build clarity and confidence. The college offers both diploma and degree programs, giving students the flexibility to begin early or move towards advanced career paths. The diploma course builds a strong starting point, while the degree program prepares students for higher studies and professional growth.

Exposure is a key part of learning here. Students regularly go for industrial visits to cities like Goa, Hyderabad, and Mumbai, where they observe pharmaceutical operations. In addition, visits to nearby industries help them stay connected with local practices and day-to-day working systems. The department also organizes panel discussions and international conferences, where experts and speakers from countries like Italy, Poland, Spain, Czech Republic, and Slovenia share their knowledge and experiences.

This global interaction broadens students' thinking and gives them a wider perspective. With well-equipped laboratories, supportive faculty, and continuous academic activities, the focus remains on shaping skilled, confident, and responsible healthcare professionals.

Communique` from The Principal

Dr. Vikram Kumar Sahu
Principal - MPCP

At Maharana Pratap College of Pharmacy, we believe in three simple words: Dream, Grow, Lead. Every student who enters our college carries a dream. Our role is to help them understand that dream and slowly turn it into reality.

We guide them with care so they can grow in studies, and also in confidence and thinking. Learning here is kept simple and meaningful. Students read, practice, observe, and understand. Through labs, activities, and real exposure, they learn how things actually work. This makes their learning strong and clear. We also focus on values like honesty, respect, discipline, and responsibility.

These small habits help students become better individuals. When they improve step by step, they naturally learn how to lead in their own way. Our teachers support students at every stage, helping them move forward without fear.

We want them to ask questions, try new things, and learn from every experience. I truly believe that every student has the ability to do something good in life. With the right guidance, they can dream big, grow with strength, and lead with confidence in the world ahead.

At Maharana Pratap College of Pharmaceutical Sciences, we believe that education should bring stability, direction, and a sense of purpose in a student's life. A calm and well-managed environment helps young minds stay focused, and that is what we try to build every day within our campus.

Here, learning is guided with care and consistency. Students are supported through regular classes, practical understanding, and close attention to their progress. We make sure that no student feels lost or left behind. Step by step, they are guided to improve, both in their studies and in their overall behaviour.

We give importance to routine, discipline, and balanced growth. Students are encouraged to use their time wisely, stay committed to their goals, and develop habits that will help them in the long run. Along with academics, we ensure they are prepared for real opportunities that come after their course.

Our effort is to create a place where students feel secure, guided, and clear about their future. With the right support and steady effort, they move forward with confidence and become responsible individuals ready for the world ahead.

Dr. Anjan Debnath

Associate Adjunct Professor, Skaggs School of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, University of California, San Diego, USA

Maharana Pratap College of Pharmacy marked a significant milestone in its International Knowledge Series by hosting Dr. Anjan Debnath, Associate Professor at the University of California San Diego (UCSD), USA.

A leading global researcher, Dr. Debnath is known for his pioneering work on deadly and rare pathogens, including the brain-eating amoeba Naegleria fowleri. His insights into innovative therapies, marine-derived drug leads, and advanced screening techniques placed students at the forefront of emerging pharmaceutical science.

During the session, students gained clear exposure to:

- Cutting-edge research on infectious and neglected diseases
- UCSD's international CIPER research training opportunities
- Marine-based drug discovery strategies
- Future trends in global health innovation

The highlight of the day was Dr. Debnath's offer to collaborate with MPGI, opening doors for students to explore global research environments and potential training pathways at UC San Diego.

With this distinguished interaction, MPGI reaffirms its commitment to bringing world-class knowledge to its students and building academic partnerships that prepare them for careers without borders.

INTERNATIONAL GUEST SERIES

Prof. Dr. Indiran Pather

Chair and Professor, Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Howard University, Washington, D.C., USA

As part of its sustained efforts to enhance academic quality and global exposure, Maharana Pratap College of Pharmacy, Kanpur, successfully organized an enriching session under its International Guest Lecture Series. This initiative reflects the institution's commitment to integrating international perspectives into pharmaceutical education and fostering a culture of academic excellence.

The college had the honor of hosting Prof. Dr. Indiran Pather, Chair and Professor, Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Howard University, Washington, D.C., USA, as the distinguished international speaker. His visit added significant academic value and strengthened the institution's global academic engagement.

Prof. Dr. Pather delivered an insightful lecture on "Some Highlights of Pharmaceuticals for Budding Pharmacists," wherein he highlighted key concepts, recent advancements, and future directions in the field of pharmaceuticals. The session emphasized the importance of strong fundamentals, innovation-driven research, and global competency for aspiring pharmacists.

The lecture witnessed enthusiastic participation from students and faculty members. The interactive discussion provided learners with clarity on emerging opportunities in pharmaceutical sciences, research orientation, and professional development at the international level.

The successful organization of this lecture reaffirmed the institution's vision of providing holistic education enriched by global expertise. The International Guest Lecture Series continues to serve as a valuable platform for academic enrichment, professional inspiration, and institutional growth.

Prof. Premysl Mladenka

Faculty of Pharmacy, Charles University, Prague, Czech Republic, Europe

With the objective of nurturing globally competent and future-ready pharmacists, Maharana Pratap College of Pharmacy, Kanpur, organized an inspiring session under its International Guest Lecture Series. The initiative is designed to broaden students' academic vision by exposing them to international expertise and contemporary developments in pharmaceutical sciences.

The institution was privileged to host Prof. Premysl Mladenka, Faculty of Pharmacy, Charles University, Prague, Czech Republic, Europe, as the distinguished international guest. His interaction with students served as a source of motivation, encouraging them to think beyond textbooks and classroom learning.

During the session, Prof. Mladenka shared valuable insights into the dynamic role of pharmacy professionals in modern healthcare systems. He emphasized the importance of scientific curiosity, research-driven learning, and ethical responsibility in shaping successful pharmacy careers. His global academic perspective inspired students to explore research opportunities, embrace innovation, and aspire to international standards of professional excellence.

The lecture created an engaging and interactive learning environment, enabling students to actively participate, clarify concepts, and gain clarity on emerging career pathways in pharmaceutical sciences. Faculty members also benefited from the exchange of ideas, further strengthening the institution's academic and research culture.

The successful organization of this lecture reinforced the college's commitment to holistic education and global academic engagement. The International Guest Lecture Series continues to empower students by bridging knowledge, inspiration, and international exposure, thereby contributing meaningfully to their academic growth and professional development.
